

IN SUPPORT OF DR. PARKHURST.

SEVERE CRITICISM OF EX-DISTRICT-ATTORNEY

NICOLLS' ATTACK ON MR. MOSS.

"The Christian at Work," in its issue of to-morrow, will publish a forcible editorial on "Dr. Parkhurst and the People." The editorial reviews Dr. Parkhurst's work in endeavoring to purge the police force of its criminal officials, and then speaks of the obstructions thrown in Dr. Parkhurst's path by the District-Attorney's office. It also says: "Dr. Parkhurst . . . has effectively informed Colonel Fellows that the men behind the organization know the law and are not to be budged or cowed into inaction." The editorial then refers to Dr. Parkhurst's unsuccessful efforts to induce Mr. Nicoll to present the evidence against the police captains to the Grand Jury last winter, and to the impossibility of placing evidence collected by the society before the Grand Jury.

Another extract is as follows: "No one believes that an impartial jury would have failed to indict these men (Williams and Schmittberger). If they had done so, even if the District-Attorney had not interferred, it was evidently without knowledge of these facts that the Grand Jury immediately recommended that the harmonious and concerted action between the Police Department and the Society for the Prevention of Crime."

The ill-natured and vicious attack on Mr. Moss, contained in the article, by Mr. Nicoll, as a reply to the charges of Dr. Parkhurst, meets the contempt it deserves. Referring to the charge that Mr. Moss is a lawyer, "a small-time lawyer," he writes: "It was evidently without knowledge of the facts that the Grand Jury immediately recommended that the harmonious and concerted action between the Police Department and the Society for the Prevention of Crime."

Kate Ames, alias Lillian Clegg, who was the principal witness against Charles W. Gardner, agent of the Schmittberger Society, on his trial for extortion, is in trouble herself now. The extraordinary Grand Jury, on the day when she returned from New York, voted to indict her. She has been indicted on a charge of perjury, and is to stand trial on January 15th.
